Synoptics and development:

- Yesterday's stormy low has joined a low-pressure complex over Scandinavia
- Thus, Travemünde remains under the influence of low pressure, but no longer with the intensity of yesterday
- The cold front that formed with yesterday's storm low is slowed down south of Travemünde and is almost stationary there
- It is quite possible that it will swing a little retrograde back to the north, again slightly towards Travemünde

Weather today 01/08/2021

Basically, the somewhat cooler and drier air from the north will now ensure calm weather. However, in the course of the day the cold front may reactivate in the south and swing back, so that spring clouds with showers may form again.

Sun shine 6 hrs.

WEATHER

Travemünder Woche 2021

Wind Today

Average wind

The wind field continues to see a southwesterly wind, but with clearly moderate speeds of max 14 knots.

Around noon, a slight shift to the right will be followed by a more westerly wind.

Gust potential

The gustiness is in line with the average wind and lies in the range of up to 20 kn in the morning and up to 22 kn in the afternoon.

However, if more shower cells should pass over Travemünde, in addition to larger gusts, individual gusts of up to almost 30 knots are possible.

Weather tomorrow 02/08/2021

On Monday, Travemünde continues to lie on the back side of the low-pressure complex over Scandinavia.

A high-pressure system slowly building up from the North Sea will again provide a slight increasing of the gradient. In addition, one or two short showers will form in the cooler high-altitude air.

Max temperature 20°C.

Wind tomorrow 02/08/2021

TWD 250 – 270° mit TWS 12 – 17 kn, Gusts up to 27 kn.
